THE TRAINING COMMAND

The Indian Navy has a full-fledged Training Command, which is located at the picturesque port city of Kochi, Kerala in South India. The Commander-in-Chief Training Command is also the Commander-in-Chief of the Southern Naval Command, thus wearing two extremely important hats simultaneously.

The Training Command is functionally responsible for the organisation, conduct and overseeing of all basic, professional and specialist training throughout the Navy. To enable this, the Training Command continuously evolves policies, formulates syllabi, reviews and restructures the scope of training in various schools and establishments. The Command also coordinates, monitors and controls the day to day training activities of the schools and establishments and also conducts various waterman ship, adventure and sports activities.

The overall responsibility for policy issues relating to training in the Navy rests with the Chief of Personnel (COP) at Integrated Headquarters, Ministry of Defence (Navy), New Delhi, who discharges this responsibility through the Directorate of Naval Training (DNT). The DNT is responsible for liaison with various directorates at Integrated Headquarters (IHQ) and with the Central Government Agencies (MoD/ MEA) to obtain financial sanctions and promulgate training policies for implementation by the Training Command. The training schools and establishments of the Navy are listed below:-
